Any organization can claim that their goal is to protect the Delta ecosystem, but actions always speak louder than words. Exactly what has ‘Restore the Delta’ done to actually improve or restore the health of the estuary? The group has continued a campaign of rhetoric and misinformation while ignoring key stressors and potential solutions in the Delta. Their primary role has been to obstruct progress by Governor Jerry Brown and others seeking both short and long term solutions to the ailing estuary’s woes.

- ⇒ When the Central Valley Regional Water Quality Control Board ordered the Sacramento Wastewater Treatment Plant to update its outdated treatment system that was contributing the vast majority of toxic ammonia to the Delta, where was Restore the Delta?

ABSENT

- ⇒ As the City of Stockton and San Joaquin County continue to pollute the Delta with harmful stormwater toxins, what has Restore the Delta done?

NOTHING

- ⇒ As large numbers of endangered Delta salmon are lost each year to predation by non-native species in the Delta, where does Restore the Delta stand?

AGAINST PROTECTING SALMON

- ⇒ While the Federal Emergency Management Agency continued to provide federally subsidized insurance encouraging development destroying critical habitat in the Delta, what did Restore the Delta do?

ZILCH

Not exactly a stellar track record of restoration. The only “accomplishment” that this group and its supporters can claim is a series of lawsuits preventing state scientists from studying water long term solutions in the Delta.

When it comes to solutions, this group of obstructionists is

MISSING IN ACTION!
